-Mr. Dolph on Chinese Exclusion. Mr. Dolph (Ore.) addressed the Senate in advocacy of a bill heretofore introduced by him appropriating $500,000 to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to enforce the Chinese exclusion act. He said that he was not now, and never had been, a radical on the Chinese question, but he wished particularly to correct some current er-roneous impressions in reference to the Geary act. He went on to make a state-ment to show the undesirable features of Chinese immigration and to summarize the acts which had led up to the passage of

He defended the provision for Chinese registration, and said that he himself was more responsible for that provision than any man in the United States, for he had drawn it. All the talk against it came generally from religious organizations, which seemed to have obtained their information from ignorant newspaper reporters. It was absolutely necessary, he said—if the law were to be executed intelligently—that the provision for registration should

In almost every state in the Union American citizens who desired to vote had to be registered, and yet no one had ever thought of that requirement being degrading or humiliating. So also persons who desired fear that the Chinese government would re taliate upon Americans in China. The Chinese government was not in a condition Chinese government was not in a condition to retaliate. He regretted that bad advice had been given to Chinese laborers by the Six Companies. And now, he said, it had been gravely proposed that the law should be repealed. That would be indeed an extraordinary proceeding, inconsistent with the dignity of the United States. If, however, the Chinese government should come to the United States government and say the Six Companies had prevented Chinese the Six Companies had prevented Chinese laborers from registering, promise that they would now comply with the law and ask an extension of time, there would be no insuperable objection to the granting of further time.

THE HOUSE.

Mr. Rusk (Md.) offered a resolution for the increase of the number of employes in the office of the sergeant-at-arms, postmaster and doorkeeper of the House. Re ferred.

Mr. McLaurin (S. C.) asked leave to intro and the Senate adopted as an amen ment duce a bill authorizing the issue of $125,000, 000 of treasury notes.

Mr. Dingley (Me.) objected. The House then resumed the considera tion of the new code of rules. The pending amendment was that offered by Mr. Hooker (Miss.) providing that when by Mr. Hooker (aliss.) providing that when a request is made for unani nous consent it will prevail unless objected to by seven members instead of by one, as at present.

Mr. Tracey moved to strike out from rule 21 what is known as the Holman clause, which permits amendments being proposed to general appropriation bills provided that they, being germane, shall retrench expenditures by the reduction of the number and salary of officers of the United States, by the reduction of the compensation of any person paid out of the treasury and by the reduction of amounts of money covered by the bill.

This provision of the rules, he said, had worked nothing but mischief, and had been the cause of much delay and confusion in committee of the whole. It ought to be a believed. Mr. McMillin (Tenn.) protested against the proposed change. There was no dis-guising the fact that while we were able to meet our requirements the treasury was almost bankrupt. To repeal his clause almost bankrupt. To repeal his clause would open the path to extravagance. It would be madness to do so. It would be unjust to the people. It had been the only means by which Congress had been enabled to retrench expenditures. It had been the only way in which some years ago the the only way in which some years ago the democrats had been able to prevent the use of troops at the polls.

After further debate by Messrs. Simpson (Kan.), W. A. Stone (Pa.), Holman (Ind.), Cannon (Ill.) and Hooker (Miss.) Mr. Tracey withdrew his motion. Against the 100 Quorum Mr. Kyle (Miss.) offered an amendment striking out the clause which makes 100 a quorum in committee of the whole. He be-

Drawing the Lines Closely. The administration forces in the Senate are drawing the lines very closely around the silver men, and it is apparent that Mr. Voorhees will take advantage of every opportunity to press the repeal bill to an early vote. His demand yesterday after-noon for a vote when a lapse in the proceedings occurred and no one was prepared to go on took the silver men rather by sur-prise. But now that they are fully aware of the tactics that will be pursued by the re-pealites they will be on the lookout for a recurrence of such a situation, and it is understood that several speeches have been prepared and stored away in Senators' desks, which will be utilized to fill up time desks, which will be utilized to fill up time should it be found necessary to do so.

A new move was made today when Senator Voorhees announced that on Monday he would ask the Senate to consider the advisability of meeting thereafter at 11 o'clock on each morning in order that an additional hour each day will be given for debate. It is not the intention of the silver men to oppose this action but they will

In connection with this announcement made by Mr. Voorhees, he uttered a remark significant. He said in effect that he had an old-fashioned idea that the will of the majority should be submitted to. This is regarded as an indication that it is the intention of the advocates of repeal to at-tempt to force a cloture in the Senate when

Rejoicing of Home Rule Advocates

Only Forty-two of the Peers Favor It.

When Mr. Gladstone emerged from the house and entered his carriage he received tremendous ovation. The crowds hurrahed, waved handkerchiefs and ran beside the carriage during the short drive so Downing street, cheering eathusiastically. Mr. Gladstone looked well and he smilingly acknowledged the greetings.

The unionist leaders will meet on Monday to consider Mr. Gladstone's resolution asking the whole time of the house for government business, which he unexpectedly intimated would apply to the autumn session. The object of the resolution is undoubtedly to secure the passage of the popular parish council bill before Christmas.

The conservatives contend that such a drastic resolution has never before extended over the whole business of the government. NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—A Beaufort special says that more than two hundred colored persons were drowned on St. Helena Island and one hundred on Ladies' Island.
